

WEDDING BELLS

GOODACRE—WOODS.

A pretty wedding of wide district interest was solemnised at St. Barnabas' Church of England, Fairfield, on Saturday last, the contracting parties being Dorothy (youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Woods, of York-street, Fairfield) and Keith (third son of Mr. G. and the late Mrs. Goodacre, of Homebusch). Rev. H. E. Rogers tied the nuptial knot. The church had been nicely decorated by friends of the bride, making an effective setting for the pretty ceremony. Mr. Glen Martyn played the Wedding March and sang "Because" in fine style.

The bride made a dainty picture in a charming creation of satin applique, with applique tulle veil, and Russian head-dress. She also carried a beautiful bouquet of stock and camellias.

The bridesmaids were Misses Ruth May (friend of the bride) and Lillian Woods, both prettily attired in maize chiffon, with stiffened net halos, and carried lilac and mauve stock bouquets.

Barbara Osborne was the dainty little flower girl, dressed similarly to the bridesmaids, and carrying a basket of lilac.

Mr. Neil Goodacre was best man, and Mr. Max Woods, groomsmen.

The reception was held at the Golden Bell Hall, where Mrs. Woods received the guests. She wore a black lace dinner gown, and carried a bouquet of primroses. Assisting her was Miss Goodacre (sister of the bridegroom).

Mr. Frank Hunt carried out the duties of chairman in his genial way, and the usual toasts were honored. Dancing was afterwards enjoyed.

The bride's travelling dress was of black marquette georgette, with black hat, trimmings of golden rod.

After the honeymoon, the couple will live at Auburn.

A kitchen tea was tendered to Miss Woods on the Wednesday previously, organised by Mrs. Vera Jones and Mrs. Eric Woods. Over 100 guests assembled at the Golden Bell Hall, where musical items and dancing pleasantly passed the time. Mr. Glen Martyn's orchestra supplied the music. The large collection of presents testified to the esteem in which the popular young lady is held, and included many unusual and valuable articles.

COLEMAN—COLEMAN.

An interesting and picturesque ceremony took place at the Methodist Church, Fairfield, on Saturday last, when two well-known district families were united by marriage. The happy couple were Daisy Irene (youngest daughter of Mrs. E. A. Coleman, of Brennan-street, Smithfield) and Warren Percy (second son of Mrs. M. Coleman, of Bartons-street, Smithfield). Rev. A. Morris, of street, Smithfield). Rev. A. Morris, of Randwick, and formerly of Fairfield, performed the ceremony. The organist, played the wedding march, and Mrs. Morris sweetly sang an appropriate solo. The church had been effectively decorated by Mrs. Phil Stein.

The bride (who was given away by her brother, Mr. S. Coleman, of Guildford) looked daintily attractive in a frock of white lace, lace halo, with tulle veil, and carrying a sheaf of iris.

Mrs. W. Pope and Miss B. Coleman, matron-of-honor and bridesmaid, respectively, were dressed in blue chiffon over mauve taffeta, with blue flowered hats, and they carried lilac shower bouquets.

Mr. Charlie Walker filled the role of best man, and Mr. W. Pope that of groomsmen.

The reception was held at the Protestant Hall, Fairfield. The bride's mother, wearing a black costume, with grey accessories, and orchid at lapel, received the guests. The bridegroom's mother also chose a black costume, with fawn accessories, and posy of red rosebuds.

Rev. A. Morris presided at the breakfast, where a happy time was spent, the customary toasts being honored.

The bride's travelling dress was a blue ensemble, with black accessories. The honeymoon will be spent on the North Coast, after which the happy couple will reside at Lithgow.

Among the handsome array of presents were gifts from their work-mates, and a cheque from David Jones, Ltd., where the bride had been employed for about ten years.

EDWARDS—HULBERTSON.

The wedding took place at the R.C. Church, Fairfield, on Saturday last, of Josephine (eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hulbertson, of Newtown) and Norman ('Jerry'), youngest son of Mrs. and the late Mr. T. Edwards, of Wrentham-street, Fairfield. Rev. Father Harrington officiated.

The bride looked charming in a pink and navy ensemble, with hat and shoes to tone.

Miss Peggy Hulbertson (sister of the bride), the bridesmaid, wore a pretty blue frock, with toning hat and shoes.

Mr. J. Flynn (step-brother of the bride) was best man.

The reception took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Torry Edwards, Vine-street, Fairfield, where the bride's mother, dressed in blue morocain, with a red shoulder posy, received the guests. The bridegroom's mother wore black morocain, with posy of violets.

At the breakfast Mr. Jim. Spence, jun., presided, and the appropriate toasts were honored.

The home of the couple will be in Cabramatta, where the bridegroom is in business as a hairdresser.

The breakfast was an outstanding feature of the festivities, with all an exceedingly gay time.

of the festival. It was a most exceedingly gay time.

REID—KELLY

The wedding of Miss Lila May Kelly, eldest daughter of Mrs. E. Blackstone, of Canley Vale to Mr. David Charles Reid, of "Mayley," Canley Vale, took place at St. Phillip's Church of England, Auburn, on Friday, September 25. The happy couple's future home will be at Auburn.
